KOREAN BUFFER ZONE SUBCOMMITTEE STILL DEADLOCKED

HURRICANE IS HOVERING OFF BIG OIL PORT

Tampico, Mexico, Aug. 22.—(P)—This city's 100,000 inhabitants faced again today the threat of a "dangerous" hurricane hovering offshore.

While experts tried to figure where the storm would strike, the Tampico people laid in supplies of food and strengthened their houses for the big blow.

The plan to bring inhabitants of the low-lying, lightly built outer suburbs into the center of the city was delayed until the storm's course is known. Police said about 100 of the more nervous ones came voluntarily to refugee centers set up in school houses on the hill in the center of town. Farmers came into the city to seek shelter.

The newspaper El Mundo estimated "several thousand" residents of the outlying districts had spent the night on high ground, some in the refugee centers and some with friends.

A heavy rain was falling as day broke and a fresh breeze was blowing.

Early today the U. S. Weather Bureau at New Orleans said the storm—after remaining almost stationary for several hours—was beginning to move slowly towards Tampico.

Last night's advisories had predicted the swirling winds, which killed 155 persons in devastated Jamaica, would hit this port of 100,000 population and nearby rich Mexican oil fields before noon today.

Hoping to ride out the raging fury, if it strikes, Tampico authorities have ordered thousands of residents in the lowlands moved to higher ground. The Mexican army has commandeered all trucks and cars here to speed the evacuation.

The center of Tampico is built on a hill, but the outlying districts are on low ground subject to flooding. The refugees will be lodged in schools and the municipal palace.

A weather plane is expected to fly over the storm area later this morning in an attempt to plot its course. Meanwhile, weather officials said, it is impossible to predict exactly what direction it will take.

Winds at the core of the hurricane are said to reach 115 to 130 (Turn to Page Eight)

Special House Committee to Attempt Task of Charting a New Compromise Tax Plan

Harrisburg, Aug. 22.—(P)—Speaker Herbert P. Sorg (R-Elk) said today a special house committee will start next Monday on the job of charting a new compromise tax program.

"If we are unable to reach some sort of an agreement in four weeks, then we should give up and adjourn," said Sorg to a newsmen.

Pennsylvania's lawmakers recessed yesterday until Sept. 17 after reading a new stalemate in a long series of setbacks on taxes.

Sorg heads an eight-man committee set up by the house Republican caucus to frame some sort of a revenue-raising program to fill a $111,000,000 gap in Gov. John S. Fine's $1,220,000,000 budget.

The deficiency was created by refusal of senate Republicans to approve Fine's proposal for a one-half of one per cent income tax after it had passed the house last April.

Senate efforts in preparing a $138,685,000 substitute tax program were rebuffed by house rejection of the package. It included new levies on tobacco products and real estate transfers and increased taxes on corporate net income, beer, cigarettes and gross receipts of public utilities.

Meanwhile, Chairman G. Graybill Diehm (R-Lancaster) of the senate reapportionment committee said the problem of congressional reapportionment will also be put over because of the Sept. 17 recess.

He had originally planned to introduce a bill today to top off three seats to reduce Pennsylvania's delegation to congress to 30 in conformity with 1950 population changes.

Diehm said his committee proposes to knock off two Republican seats and one Democratic place. They include the 15th district.

On another front, the State Justice Department scrutinized legislation to permit the sale of yellow olomargarine in Pennsylvania.

The lawmakers, before recessing yesterday, moved to cut down legislative expenses by laying off 156 day-to-day employees of the house and senate until the legislature reconvenes September 17. The saving was estimated at $1376 a day.

Republican senators agreed "very reluctantly" to the house suggestion for the recess, the 1951 legislature is now the longest since 1778.

On Monday, the senate GOP caucus turned down the recess idea. Sen. Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill) said his colleagues then went along with it "as the last possible way out of this situation."

SEKS INVESTIGATION OF CRIME IN STATE

Harrisburg, Aug. 22.—(P)—Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) called on the senate yesterday for action on resolutions to establish a bi-partisan crime committee to probe racketeering in the commonwealth.

His request was made in the form of a new resolution which also was referred to the rules committee, headed by Sen. John M. Walker (R-Allegheny).

Yosko also introduced a bill to make it unlawful to print or otherwise produce wall charts, tip sheets, scratch sheets, bookmaking tickets or other gambling items. The measure went to the law and order committee.

SUICIDES BY MONOXIDE

Washington, Pa., Aug. 22.—(P)—Charles K. Dickinson, 37, of Haverford, N. Y., was found dead of carbon monoxide poison in a car he rented only a short time before.

Kenneth Thompson, deputy coroner of Washington county, issued a verdict of suicide and said Dickinson ended his life because of a "frustrated love affair." Thompson said a note was found in the car addressed to a woman police declined to identify.

Shift of Pin Gives U. S. Forces Air Supremacy in Exercises Southern Pine

Fort Bragg, N. C., Aug. 22.—(P)—The simple shift of a pin on a big map today gave U. S. forces air supremacy in exercise Southern Pine for the first time since the big army-air force war games started last week.

The pin was shifted by umpires controlling the 100,000-man maneuver and took away elements of the ninth air force's 137th fighter bomber wing, of Alexandria, La., and the 140th fighter bomber wing, from Denver, Colo., and transferred them to U. S. forces. Both the 137th, which flies the speedy F-84 Jets and the 140th, equipped with conventional type F-51 Mustangs, are now based at Wilmington.

Thus, two U. S. Army divisions, the 28th and the 43rd, found the tide shifting in their favor after two days of reverses, that forced them to withdraw about two miles.

The reverses which are still continuing today, enabled the two former national guard units to gain valuable training under realistic battle conditions and without the benefit of a dominating air force.

All signs were pointing to a major buildup for a counter-attack by the U. S. forces and the emphasis was on supply. The broad responsibility for moving the supplies up in time fell on the shoulders of a Korean veteran, Maj. Gen. Crump Carvin. Gen. Carvin is commanding general of the 301st logistical command, a former New York City reserve unit that was pulled into active service last fall.

UNDERWRITERS COMING

Borough Manager L. M. McConnell received word today from R. Goodhue, Philadelphia, chief engineer of the Middle Department Association of Fire Underwriters, that the underwriters will make a survey of Warren as a whole and of its fire-fighting equipment and fire-fighting force early in September.

Two U. S. Army divisions, the 28th and the 43rd, found the tide shifting in their favor after two days of reverses, that forced them to withdraw about two miles.

Legislation to Allow Sale of Oleo In State Under Study of the Justice Dep't

Harrisburg, Aug. 22.—(P)—Legislation passed by the general assembly to allow sale of yellow oleomargarine to housewives went under close study today by the state Justice Department to make certain it is letter perfect.

Attorney General Robert E. Woodside said the word-by-word study was necessary to determine that it met the tests of constitutionality, spelling and grammar.

Such scrutiny, he said, is made of all legislation passed by the assembly before it is sent to Gov. John S. Fine for action. It came in for attention this time because of interest in the oleo bill.

The legislation is likely to go to Fine "before the week is out," Woodside said.

Pennsylvania's housewives would be allowed to buy one pound containers of the product under provisions of the measure. The ban on use of the product in restaurants and institutions is retained in the bill.

As the examination takes place, margarine distributors and manufacturers are readying their trucks and other transportation facilities to place the product on the grocer's shelves quickly if the governor signs the bill.

They anticipate by using all available facilities they can cover the state within 48 hours or less. One company has indicated it would use a fleet of taxicabs in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Allentown, Harrisburg and Altoona.

Regular delivery trucks will be utilized to handle large order deliveries and for deliveries throughout the state.

SENATE COMMITTEE FIXES TAX BOOST AT $412,000,000

Washington, Aug. 22.—(P)—The tax-writing senate finance committee tentatively has decided on a personal income tax boost $412,000,000 lower than that voted by the house.

The committee threw out the house revenue-boosting plan on individuals yesterday and adopted a formula of its own which considerably lightens the increase in the upper income brackets.

This formula would raise personal income levies by an estimated $2,435,000,000 a year compared with $2,847,000,000 in the house measure.

The committee continues its closed-door reworking of the house bill today. It has yet to act on the $2,855,000,000 in corporation tax boosts voted by the house or the hikes in many excise taxes.

The tentative vote was the first taken by the senators in their re-writing of the house-passed $7,200,000,000 measure.

It bore out advance predictions of committee members that the senate would whittle down the house figure rather than increase it toward the $10,000,000,000 asked by President Truman to help balance the budget and hold down inflationary pressures.

The finance committee formula would put an added defense tax on that portion of income now left after the individual has paid his taxes.

Thus it would hit with progressively less impact in the higher brackets where the present levy consumes a large share of total income.

With appropriate dedicatory ceremonies, Warren county will be presented with a Pennsylvania State flag during the observance of Pennsylvania Week, October 15-21.

Ralph E. Sires, Warren county chairman of the Pennsylvania Week committee, was in Harrisburg on Tuesday, and they have agreed to purchase the flag, its size and material to correspond with the American flag now in the large Court Room. The State flag will be on one side of the bench to flank the American flag on the other.

While many states use their flag on all holidays and in all sections, Pennsylvanians seldom see their State flag except on their infrequent visits to the capital city.

Greensburg Papers to Drop Saturday Issues

Greensburg, Aug. 22.—(P)—The publisher of Greensburg's two daily newspapers said today the price of both will be hiked from four to five cents a copy beginning Sept. 1 because of higher operating costs and a scarcity of skilled labor.

Robert B. Herbert also announced his plant will go on a five-day week Sept. 10 with The Evening Tribune dropping its Saturday issue and The Morning Review its Monday paper. He said this schedule will provide the city with one local newspaper each day. No Sunday paper is published.

There was no suggestion from any quarter that progress had been made toward settling the main issue.

Both sides were depicted as still holding out for their original demands on where to create a buffer zone. The U. N. wants it along the battle line; the Reds along the 38th parallel. Most of the front is north of 38.

It was authoritatively reported that Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. delegate, received no new instructions from U. N. Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway during a flying visit to Tokyo. Joy returned to Munsan Tuesday.

Responsible quarters said the U. N. position remained unchanged.

A release from U. N. command advance headquarters pictured the Reds as "obdurate in their politically tainted demands" and "inscrutable in presenting them."

It said the Communists were "immune" to the "military logic" of the Allied command.

The statement appeared to support the belief that the subcommittee has made no progress on the buffer zone issue which stumped the full five-man truce teams for three weeks.

Air Force Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie replaced Rear Adm. Arleigh Burke for the second time on the two-man Allied subcommittee for Wednesday's two-hour and ten-minute meeting.

North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, head of the Red delegation, rejected Joy's preliminary reply on one protest.

Rockland, Me., Aug. 22.—(P)—Senator Robert A. Taft accused President Truman today of attempting to dismiss charges of Communist influences and corruption in the administration with shouts of "liar."

The Ohio Republican—named by Mr. Truman as his favorite for the GOP presidential nomination in 1952—told a party rally in this old fishing port:

"The fact that the president of the United States can so blithely dismiss the proved charges; in many cases brought out and substantiated by Democratic committees, is evidence of the low standard he accepts himself and hopes will be accepted by the people."

Taft challenged the president to follow up denunciation of scandal mongers" by being specific.

"I suggest," declared Taft, "the president point out the lies instead of shouting 'liar.'"

While swinging out with both fists in his denunciation of the Truman administration's policies—at home and abroad—Taft brushed aside attempts to feel him out on general Dwight Eisenhower as a potential presidential candidate.

Shepherding Taft in his Maine travels was Maine's senator Owen Brewster (R), who is pushing the Ohio Senator's candidacy with the slogan "Taft or chaos."

Reds Accused by the Allies Of Making "Universal Symbol of Bad Faith" Out of Kaesong

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 22.—(P)—The Allies accused the Communists today of making "a universal symbol of bad faith" out of Kaesong, site of Korean war truce talks.

The charge was broadcast after a shirt-sleeved subcommittee held its sixth session in Kaesong without sign of breaking the deadlock over where to draw an armistice line across Korea.

The subcommittee scheduled another try for Thursday. Armistice negotiations were complicated by a dispute over latest Red charges that United Nations forces violated the Kaesong neutrality zone.

The "Voice of the United Nations Command," broadcast from Tokyo to Korea, said the "Communist charges border on the ridiculous."

The broadcast asked: "Why are the United Nations delegates assigned to an armistice mission constantly forced to divert their attention to the question of armed personnel in the conference area?"

The broadcast traced the history of incidents within the neutral zone and answered its own question:

"It is now quite obvious that Kaesong was picked (by the Communists as a negotiating site) in order to intimidate the UNC (United Nations Command) delegates by a show of force."

"That failing, the conferences could be stalemated with a series of side issues blocking the main discussions."

There was no suggestion from any quarter that progress had been made toward settling the main issue.

Battleship Towed From a Sand Bar

New York, Aug. 22.—(P)—The 45,000-ton battleship Wisconsin went aground in the Hudson river, opposite Manhattan and was towed free about two hours later, a New York Central Railroad tug reported.

Thousands of onlookers watched efforts by a swarm of towboats in pulling the big ship back into mid-stream.

The battleship, which came into the Hudson yesterday on a training cruise, was moored to fore and aft buoys opposite 79th street, across from West New York, N. J.

First reports were that the stern line parted. Another report was that the great weight of the ship had dragged both moorings in a heavy running tide.

The Navy reported the vessel "under control" but gave no immediate details.

The mishap recalled the grounding of the Wisconsin's sister ship, the 45,000-ton Missouri, in Chesapeake Bay on Jan. 17, 1950.

Jerry, who is a Warren High school student, was riding with a friend, Eugene Lauffenberger, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Lauffenberger of Pleasant township, when his right arm, which he had thrust from the car window, struck a rural route mailbox in front of the Johnson home on the Heart's Content road. Lauffenberger rushed Hansen to the hospital where the arm was set.

The patient spent a comfortable night and his condition was reported as good today.

Buddies on Duty Together in Pusan, Korea

Warren buddies, Kingsley Culbertson, left, and Robert Mead, who enlisted together in the United States Air Force, received training together in Texas and in Colorado, and were then separated when Mead was sent to Korea on June 29, have been reunited and are doing duty together again in Pusan, Korea.

Culbertson, 19, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Culbertson, Brown Run, Clarendon R. D. 1, and Mead, 21, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gael G. Mead, Hemlock, Warren R.D. 1. The former is a 1950 graduate of Warren High school and Mead graduated in 1948.

The two young men enlisted in the Air Force in Warren, December 26, 1950, and left Jan. 2 to take basic training at Lackland Air Base, Texas. They were then sent to Lowrey Field, Denver, Colo., for bomb-sight mechanic training. When Mead was sent to Korea last June 29, the two boys were separated for the first time in a number of years, then Culbertson left for Korea on August 8 and their parents have just received word that they are in the same outfit at Pusan.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York—(AP)—Americans are producing more in goods and services than ever before in their history. But Uncle Sam is paying for the increased production out of his own pocket.

The extent to which the present prosperity reflects the shift from civilian support of the economy to support by government spending is shown today by two reports.

The first is by the department of commerce. It says that the total production of goods and services in the nation swelled to a record annual rate of $325.6 billion in April, May and June. But civilian buying dropped from the rate of January, February and March.

And government spending accounted for the increase in production, while government payrolls showed the greatest proportionate gain in the rise in personal income.

The second report is by the president's council of economic advisors. It was made last week and revealed that industrial production dropped sharply in July. The drop was credited to a decline in output of civilian goods to make way for increased production of goods for defense. The shift continued in August, as Uncle Sam's tax dollars played an increasing part in the nation's business.

Over-all production in the first 12 months of the Korean war increased nearly 20 per cent, the department of commerce reports. But it states the gain in dollar value and doesn't break down how much was due to rising prices and how much was actual increase in goods themselves. The council of economic advisors, however, thinks that recently the gain was almost entirely in units, with prices staying fairly level.

In the three months before the Korean war started, the annual rate of total production was $275 billion. In the first three months of this year it rose to $319 billion. An annual rate gain of around $7 billion was counted in April, May and June to bring it to nearly $326 billion.

But this $7 billion is also the same figure as the rise in government spending. Federal, state and local government purchases rose from an annual rate of $53 billion in the first quarter of this year to $60 billion in the second quarter. Prior to that the increase in output has been taken up almost entirely by the increase in private spending.

As government spending rose, consumer purchasing dropped. The department reports that in the first three months of this year the public was buying at an annual rate of $208.2 billion. But in the next three months they cut their spending back by three per cent to $201.7 billion.

This cutback in private spending apparently does not stem from any loss in total income. The department reports that in April, May and June total personal income was increasing at an annual rate of $6 billion to reach a record $251.1 billion. The increase in wages and salaries, on a yearly scale, is put at $5 billion. And the department says that government payrolls made the greatest proportionate advance, again reflecting the steady shift to defense and related government programs.

Much of the increased personal income apparently is going into various forms of savings, and away from the merchants.

The National Association of Mutual Savings banks reports today that deposits in the nation's 529 mutual savings banks hit a new high of nearly $20.5 billion at the end of July, up $57 million in the month.

The institute of life insurance reports that net funds behind life insurance policies are now around $55 billion (their face value—another matter—is $243 billion). Americans have around $50 billion in U. S. savings bonds. Savings and loan accounts total about $14.5 billion. And savings deposits in commercial banks are around $35.5 billion.

TODAY is pay day for all the folks who have classified ads.

Boys at Lutheran Camp Are Having A Wonderful Time

(Written for the Times-Mirror by Camp Reporters)

Rain greeted the lads at the Lutheran Boy's Camp yesterday morning when they rolled out of their blankets. Details were quickly organized to climb the hill back of the camp and mop up the sky. The rain soon ended and the day's program went off as planned. The completion of repairs to the camp water system also was a great help.

Harry Black and Chuck Johnson dished up two fine meals: one built around baked ham and the other with hamburgers as the chief item. The cooks, doing a fine job, are quite popular with the boys.

Bob Benze and Clyde Baker were the first two boys to complete the various requirements to win a camp "L." It is expected that each day will find an increasing number of the campers becoming eligible for the award.

The results of the competitive sports for the day were as follows: The Commandos won from the Air Force at basketball. Then the Navy defeated the Commandos at the same game and Sea Bees were downed by the Army. At volleyball the Commandos took over the Navy and the Air Force while the Army whipped the Sea Bees. In softball the Frogmen-Paratroopers beat the Rangers-Marines and the Navy-Sea Bees took over the Rangers-Marines.

Part of the evening program was a film which was shown in the Playhouse. Some of the boys realized with regret, when they finished the day, that the camping period was half over.

Emblem Request To Build a Station In Corry Hits a Snag

Corry Journal: Corry's highly controversial zoning ordinance appears headed for its biggest test after City Council Monday night ruled it could not grant the application of the Emblem Oil Co. of Warren to construct a new and modern service station at the southeast corner of East Columbus avenue and North Center street.

Already aligned with the oil concern are a majority of the residents in the vicinity of the site who at a zoning-board hearing held several weeks ago dubbed the present structure, which would be removed, an eye sore and a health hazard.

While no action was taken by the board at that hearing, most of those attending came away with the opinion, gained from off-hand comments made by board members, that they were favorable to granting the application if it could be done in any way under the provisions of the zoning ordinance.

At least one member of the board expressed himself in favor of the appeal.

In its formal application to Council Monday night the Warren firm said it has procured all the necessary materials for the station and is ready to start at once if approval can be obtained. The structure would be built directly opposite the present station.

The project was turned down by Council on the strength of former Solicitor Walter Scott's ruling made at the time the Atlantic Refining Co. was attempting to buy the old hospital site for a station. Then, Scott ruled the ordinance prohibits another service station from being erected.

Solicitor Roger Brown upheld Scott's precedent-setting ruling when queried during Monday night's session.

After ruling against the request, Council instructed the city clerk to write to the concern and inform officials they can appeal to the Zoning Board. In case that three-man body finds the appeal merits granting, it can ask Council to revise the ordinance.

Reunion Is Held By Clendening and Friendship Pupils

(Contributed) The 38th annual reunion of former teachers, pupils and their families of the Clendening and Friendship schools, was held Saturday, August 18th, 1951, at the Van Orsdale camp in Cable, Nev. The weather was ideal and by the time the appointed hour for the picnic dinner had arrived, approximately 100 people had assembled and the long tables on the lawn were rapidly filled by reunion members and families and several visitors.

After "Grace" by Mrs. Mary Kirwin all proceeded to enjoy the delicious dinner after which the tables were practically filled again.

After the dinner a business meeting was called to order, opening with singing of "America." The president, David Nelson being absent, the vice president, David Van Orsdale presided, at which time the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: president, Clyde Jury, Warren; vice president, William Nelson, Forestville, N. Y.; secretary, Mrs. Olive Jury, Warren; treasurer,

COLUMBUS POLIO CASE

Corry Journal: The Corry area's first polio case of this year was recorded late last night with the definite diagnosis of the illness of Richard Henry, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry of Columbus. The youngster was removed from the Corry Memorial Hospital to the Lake View Hospital for isolation last evening. The tentative diagnosis of a local polio was confirmed at the hospital later in the night. Although no definite paralysis has been observed as yet, hospital attaches said the lad's condition is serious. His admittance at Lake View was the 21st there this year.

WE MUST FOIL KREMLIN'S PLAN

With commendable speed the United States acted to spike at the start Russia's obvious plan to wreck the Japanese treaty at San Francisco.

The Kremlin has formal notice that the coming meeting is a final conference for the "concluding" and signing of the pact. Neither we nor any major power associated with the treaty drafting intend at this stage to allow the Russians to re-open negotiations on detailed terms.

This is admirable resolve. But we must lay careful plans to meet every trick Moscow may conceive. We must assure not only that the Soviet Union does not wreck the treaty but that it does not so twist events at San Francisco as to gain an important propaganda victory.

Almost certainly Russia will protest that it is being frozen out without a hearing. This, of course, is not the case. John Foster Dulles had three meetings with Jacob Malik on the progress of negotiations. It was Malik who broke off the talks. Earlier, the Russians repeatedly had hamstrung all efforts to begin framing a treaty. They did not take part because they did not want a pact to be drawn.

We should be ready at San Francisco with the whole history of Russia's relation to Japanese treaty discussions, from the moment World War II ended. And we should not hesitate to remind the world that Moscow joined the war against Japan exactly one week before it ended.

ARMY SHOWS IMAGINATION

A unique experiment in troop training is being initiated by the United States in Korea.

The expanding South Korean army will be intensively re-trained in the field. One division at a time, the South Koreans will be pulled back a few miles from the front and given eight weeks' schooling in tactics. None of the trainees will at any time leave the general battle area.

As the individual outfits complete their training, they will move back into the line. They will there be held in readiness should cease-fire talks collapse.

This is an unusual and imaginative program. And it will serve a valuable double purpose.

If the cease-fire talks succeed, ultimately the South Korean army must shoulder most of the burden of defending free Korea. It is not now equipped for the job. If, on the other hand the war should resume full-scale, re-trained South Koreans probably would contribute much more to UN effort than they have so far.

The story of the South Korean army has generally been one of brave men untrained and often ill-equipped for tough fighting. The new plan is the first real step to end that dangerous state of affairs.

WANTED: LONG-WINGED DIPLOMATS

A dispatch from Iran says things aren't going well in the oil discussions but neither the British nor the Iranians want to be blamed for breaking off talks.

On days when the Kaesong conference doesn't proceed smoothly, we hear the same sort of stuff.

At spring the Big Four powers haggled in Paris over a mere agenda for a meeting. They got nowhere, but the participants went through motions pointlessly for weeks because no one wanted the onus of ending the talks.

If this attitude becomes a habit, we can picture diplomatic sessions going on all over the world for endless months. And there won't be enough diplomats left over to keep the passport division functioning.

A prosperity note of more than usual interest to Warren and vicinity Tuesday evening is the announcement that the Sylvania Electric Products Co. has started construction of "an addition to the addition" of the Lexington avenue plant.

Rapid approach of fall and the Yuletide season is emphasized in news that the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers' Association will convene in Warren over the weekend with over 100 expected to attend.

Those "Welcome to Warren" signs being erected at highways leading into town from the east, west and north, should go a long way toward cementing good will with tourists.

Here And There

To survey the present generation of men engaged in the two trades in shops in Warren you'd hardly believe that 59 years ago the printers and barbers engaged in competitive sports such as baseball. For proof of this statement here's a reprint of an article that appeared in the Warren Ledger August 22, 1892:

On last Monday afternoon the barbers and printers of Warren engaged in "what might have been a disastrous battle with a forty-cent baseball—real hard." Quite an argument as to who should venture to umpire the game was the first encounter, in which "Jake" Amann and "Tommy" Morris on the part of the barbers, and Captain Will Young and Jimmie Marker, in behalf of the printers, showed their agility as kickers in a very successful manner. As a compromise the irrepressible and indefatigable Democrat, Charles Frederick Schwing, was selected a sort of a healer to what appeared to be a wide breach between the broken and the game was called with a victory for the typists, by one majority, the score being 12 to 13. The decisions of the umpires were considered to be a little partial to the barbers, but we didn't mind—much. The boys played really better than we expected or anticipated. Fischer and Killian made a strong battery. (Attention: Jim Marker, Printers' Ernie, Colorado Springs).

This 'n' That: Getting out the paper the past few days has not been the usually pleasant task it generally is due to the fact that an air hammer has been pounding away under our west windows almost continuously since the first of the week. "Jocko" Lawson, one of the typesetters in the composing room, seems to improve with age according to the proof reader, who reports that lately he is having an unusually large number of "okay" proofs. Insurance company engineers have decided "elbow-bending, one-arm drivers" are a highway menace, adding that "roof holding" is another common practice on the highway, in spite of the fact that some drivers claim they find the roof holding position both comfortable and relaxing. Friday is the last day for candidates in the July 24 primary election to file their accounts of receipts and disbursements in the election with the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Several well-known archers in the district are attending the National Archery tournament at Watkins Glen this week, with participants in attendance from all parts of United States, Canada and Europe. Chief of Police M. Evan delivered his interesting talk on the operation of the police department, fingerprinting, etc., at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the YWCA activities building today noon. Won't be long now until activity will be under way on all bowling alleys in and around, including those in clubs as well as the public slides. And according to reports there will be more keggers in the Warren area this year than ever before. New Process Company employees are looking forward with the usual keen anticipation to the annual picnic Friday afternoon and evening at Celoron Park. The Lewis Catering Service will be serving barbecued chicken and trimmings to a crowd of about 2,500 Sharon Steel employees at the athletic field of the Farrell High School Saturday. Ralph Sires, prothonotary, is doing an excellent job laying the groundwork for the local observance of Pennsylvania Week, with many new ideas being injected into the celebration.

It's Sometimes Best to Fight Washington Battles in Pairs

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—To get a proper perspective on some of the battles of Washington, it is sometimes useful to look at issues in pairs. For instance:

Consider the so-called tidelands' oil legislation now before Congress. It is intended to give the States, instead of the Federal government, control over all submerged mineral rights. Consider this proposition for a moment in its relation to new demands for additional Federal aid for flood-prevention work in the hard-hit Missouri and tributary river valley systems.

Consider both these propositions against the background of the arguments of States' rights against Federal government, of socialism versus the free enterprise system, of the demand for higher Federal taxes against the demand for reduction of government spending.

It has long been the policy, wholeheartedly approved by Congress, that the Federal government should foot the bill for all navigable river and harbor improvements.

River and harbor appropriations have grown into the biggest "pork barrel" in Congress. The aim of every law-maker is to get as much as he can for public works in his state and district.

It is now national policy that the taxpayers of the country as a whole must foot the bill for river, harbor and flood control work which is primarily of benefit to local communities.

What happens, though, when the question of control over tidelands oil rights comes up? This issue has now been broadened to cover all submerged mineral rights. By this legislation, states not on tidewater have been brought in to demand ownership and control over oil and other mineral rights under lakes and fresh water streams.

Do you find the states coming to the Federal government and saying in effect, "Look, Uncle Sam! Since you foot the bill on flood control work, it's only fair that you should also have first right on whatever royalties may be collected from submerged mineral rights!"

Not on your life you don't. Yet why isn't that logical? If the Federal government must pay the cost of all river and harbor improvements, why shouldn't the Federal government be given oil receipts?

Or put it the other way around: If the States are to be given clear title to tidelands oil rights, why shouldn't the states also finance their own river and harbor and flood control improvements?

The Federal taxpayer could be saved a lot of money by such a policy. And it would help mightily to balance the budget.

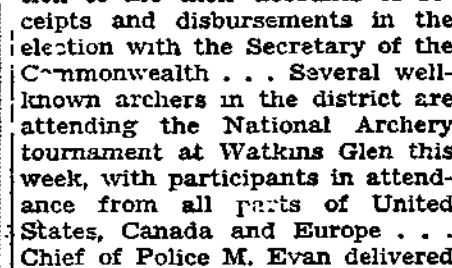

SUCH a rational appeal could never be put over in Congress. The Supreme Court has decided that marginal oil rights belong to the Federal government. The Walter bill now before Congress would upset this decision by giving title to the States. A similar bill was previously passed by Congress, but vetoed by the President, and the veto was sustained.

The proposition that the Federal government should have title to submerged mineral rights is called "socialism" by its opponents. Well, if that is socialism, why isn't it also socialism for the paternalistic Federal government to build all the flood walls and dredge all the navigable rivers and harbors?

Why not let private enterprise do all this? Let the cities and towns, the farmers and factory-owners whose lands would be directly benefited by such improvements pay all the costs.

Such an idea is of course an absurdity. The direct beneficiaries of such projects couldn't afford such outlays in the first place.

This whole discussion of course contributes no constructive thought towards solution of the tidelands and flood control problems. Yet it may serve to show how ridiculous are some of the arguments foisted in the people by politicians with such dead-pan seriousness.

MENU SUGGESTIONS

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

EVER try baking with soup? Certainly you must have enjoyed tomato-soup cake. Well, there are other combinations worth trying. Generally follow this rule when substituting soup for other liquid in the recipe for a baked product: Use 1 can (1 1/4 cups) of soup in place of about 1 cup of milk or water. Soup even has its place in hot breads.

Try Chicken Spoon Bread and you'll see. Condensed cream of chicken soup is the liquid in the recipe. And for a delicious spice cake, use a packaged mix and tomato soup as the liquid.

Chicken Spoon Bread
(Makes 6 servings)

One and one-half cups milk, 2 cans (2 1/4 cups) condensed cream of chicken soup, 1 cup cornmeal, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 eggs, separated.

Combine milk and soup; stir in cornmeal; cook mixture slowly until thick. Add the butter. Beat egg yolks; add to cornmeal mixture. Beat egg whites stiff, but not dry; fold into cornmeal mixture. Bake in a greased 2-quart casserole in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about one hour or until done. Serve hot with lots of butter.

Rosy Spice Cake
(Makes 8 pieces of cake)

One package spice cake mix (or one package w/ the cake mix with spices), 1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed tomato soup, 1/4 cup water.

To the spice cake-mix add the combined tomato soup and water; blend thoroughly, stirring until batter is smooth. (If using white cake-mix, add spices as directed for a spice cake.) Pour batter into a greased and floured 8x8x2-inch square pan.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 40 minutes, or until cake springs back when touched lightly. Remove from pan and cool. A good topping for this cake is applesauce flavored with lemon juice.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, soft-cooked eggs, blueberry muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Vegetable salad with cottage cheese and sour cream dressing, enriched crisp rolls, butter or fortified margarine, stewed cherries, rosy spice cake, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Sauté of veal, chicken spoon bread, green beans with chopped peanuts, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, mixed green salad, French dressing, blackberry pie, coffee, milk.

OUTCAST OF DESTINY

PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 10
HE WAS silent until the bartender had fed them their drinks, then he said in an outburst of frankness. "Know what I think? I think Jack plans the jobs for all three gangs."

"What makes you think that?" "Well, they never conflict and each outfit sticks to one branch of the business. It looks to me as though one man is managing the whole show and Jack's the natural choice."

"Bright boy! Keep on guessing if it amuses you. Or are you trying to pump me?" Her voice had hardened slightly. He had gone as far as he dared.

He said, "Pump you? My gosh, no. Just idle curiosity. I reckon Well, here's luck!" They drank and he got up and moved away. Uncle Jim Ferguson had returned from his gold-buying trip and was at the bar. They had a drink and Brent reported on Judy, telling of the fight with Shotgun. Ferguson said, "Cut out a bad man to tangle with. I don't care for him myself but I manage to get along with him. I'm certainly obliged to you for taking care of Judy, but watch out for Shotgun."

Biff Williams came into the saloon, and a few minutes later Jack entered. He went to his accustomed place at the end of the bar and presently Brent stroiled over to join him.

They were talking casually when hoofbeats sounded outside and a moment later the swinging doors parted to admit three men. Brent recognized them as members of Shotgun's highway gang. They walked stiffly as though weary from hard riding and their faces were pinched and grim.

They went to the bar and ordered drinks. A hush fell over the Palace; something had gone wrong and every person there sensed it. Jack walked along the bar, his eagle eyes on them. He said, "Drinks on the house, boys. Looks like you ran into trouble."

One of them said, "I'll say we ran into trouble! Kaintuck got killed and Shotgun and Gleason are being patched up by the medic."

They drank and Jack said, "Have another and tell us about it."

bus of his'n. Danged near cut him in two. At that we'd have been all right if we'd taken the specie box and beat it, but Shotgun figured we might collect a little extra from the passengers. He had 'em lined up and was goin' through 'em when they hit us."

"It was a posse followin' the stage. A bend in the trail hid them from us and Shotgun forgot to send somebody back to watch. They hit us suddenlike and started pumpin' lead before we could reach the horses. Kaintuck got it through the head right off, and Shotgun and Gleason while we was runnin'. Gleason was drilled through the hip and Shotgun got it in the arm."

Jack asked in his toneless voice, "Get the specie?" "All we got was out of there. It's a wonder more of us wasn't killed."

SHOTGUN'S riders went out to get something to eat and Brent walked over to where Judy and Lil were sitting. He had seen Biff glance in their direction several times and guessed he was waiting until Judy was alone before joining her. By beating him to it Brent hoped to save her annoyance.

Judy gave him a smile and said, "Sit down, Tex. And you don't even have to buy me a drink if you don't want to."

"But I do want to, provided it's something milder than whiskey." "She's on a tea diet," said Lil, "but I'm still soakin' up whiskey. You can buy me one if you feel like it."

He signaled the bartender and sat down. Judy said, "Lu looks as though she isn't very happy about your sitting here, Tex. She's taken a dislike to me and sometimes I think it's because of what you did for me the other night. I hope I haven't."

"Come between us? You haven't. I hardly know her. She's probably sore because you have something she hasn't. You're fresh and unspotted and a lot prettier than she is or ever will be."

Judy's eyes shone and she put a hand impulsively over his. "Honest, Tex, do you think so?" He looked into her warm brown eyes. "I told you once and I'll tell you again: I think you're the sweetest kid God ever put on earth."

Their glances held and Lil eyed them shrewdly, her gaze going from Tex to Judy and then back again. She said abruptly, "If you're in love with her, Tex, why don't you marry her and get her out of this joint?"

With a conscious effort, Brent regained control of his emotions. In love! Not in ten million years. There was no room in his heart for love until he had squared the debt he owed his father and Cole. He disengaged his hand and his face hardened. "You're loco, Lil. I can't afford to fall in love. I'm an outlaw; I can't dodge handcuffs and rolling pins at the same time. But I do think that Judy ought to get out of Destiny."

"When would I go?" asked Judy quietly. "I have no home, no friends out here, and none back East that I'd want to go to."

"You could go to some town where you could find decent work."

He felt Judy's intent gaze on him and refused to meet it. At last she said, "No, I'll stay here. One just can't run from—Destiny."

A heavy hand fell on Brent's shoulder and Biff Williams' gruff voice said, "You've been here long enough, Tex; give somebody else a chance." The hand was like an iron clamp and Brent was helpless while he remained seated. He drawled, "You may be right, Biff. Excuse me, Judy." The hand was removed and he got up. He turned to face Biff and said, "And again you may be wrong. I don't like big, heavy hands on my shoulders."

"You don't, huh? Well then I'll put that hand somewhere else."

They were standing less than two feet apart and Biff's movement was lightning fast. His fist came up in a powerful uppercut aimed at the point of Brent's chin and all the power of his heavy frame was behind the blow. Brent, knowing that something like this must come, jerked his head aside and Biff's knuckles raked across his cheek with such force that he went staggering sideways; but even as he moved he sunk a short left to the pit of Biff's stomach and heard the gasp of agony that was forced from the man's lips.

Brent caught his balance with his weight on his right foot, thrust towards Williams and hit him on the jaw with a powerful right. Williams stumbled and fell over the next table; his legs gave under his weight and he went down on top of it. Brent's gun whipped out and covered him even as he grabbed for his own Colt. Brent drawled, "I reckon you'd better not try it."

JACOBY ON CANASTA

THREE SHOULD BE FOLLOWED

"Please settle a dispute," requests a Portland, Ore., correspondent. "I was the dealer the other night, and happened to be a red three in my hand. When my first turn came, the player at my right had discarded a black three. Even if I replaced my red three at that time I couldn't possibly get the discard pile. Therefore I decided to let the red three stay in my hand."

"At my next turn, the top discard was a king. I had one king in my hand. In my opinion, this was the time to put down my red three and draw a new card. I might not get the other king that I needed, but at least I had something to shoot for."

"As it happened, I did draw another king. Since I also had the count, I waited to pick up the discard pile. I put my two kings down, together with the count, and tried to take the pile. You should have heard the fuss my opponents raised."

"To be brief, they wouldn't let me take the pile. They said I had to draw from the stock pile. Is this really the rule, or did I get jobbed?"

The opponents were right.

Portland friend had no right to take the discard pile. His only right was to draw the top card of the stock pile in this situation.

To begin with, he had no right to let the red three stay in his hand. It didn't matter that he couldn't pick up the discard pile at that time. He had absolutely no choice. He had a red three in his hand and it was up to him to put it on the table and replace it then and there, not at any later turn.

When he let the three stay in his hand, he was deliberately breaking the rules. Of course he didn't mean any harm, but it's considered very bad form in any card game to break a rule deliberately. Among experienced card players, that sort of thing isn't much better than using marked cards. Casual card players don't take it seriously, of course, but it's still the wrong thing to do. If you break one rule deliberately, somebody else may break another rule. In a short time the result is complete confusion. That is the reason for the law. The law itself is quite clear on the point: "If a player makes the correction (puts down a red three that he should have put down at an earlier turn) before drawing, he must at that turn draw from the stock and may not take the discard pile."

RUTH MILLETT
These Are Times When It's Wise to Keep Quiet

IT'S never a good idea—
For a woman to tell another woman who has gained some welcome weight how "well" she looks. Women always interpret that remark as a sly reference to the weight gained.
For one woman to confide in another woman when she is having husband trouble. The trouble will probably be ironed out—and then the one who did the talking will resent the other's knowing about what should have been a private matter.
For a woman to be coy about her age if another woman is curious about it. It will only increase her curiosity and she'll either find out for herself or guess it is more than it is.
For a woman to point out to a man flaws in an attractive woman. However true her criticism is, it will just be marked up to jealousy or feminine cattiness.
DON'T BE DISCONTENTED
FOR a woman to measure what she has against what some other woman has. There will always be someone who has more. And so long as she insists on making comparisons she won't be happy.
For a woman to brag too much about her own children. That just encourages others to look for flaws in the "perfect" children, whereas the woman who lets her children sell themselves doesn't start then off with that handicap.
For a woman to try to live through her children. They'll reach an age where they resent it and try to get out from under the attachment that is too smothering.
For a woman to take pride in her frankness. The woman who prides herself on her frankness is usually regarded by others as lacking in tact.

A MOTHER of three young children was explaining why she dropped out of an organization whose membership included most of the young social leaders of the town.
"It wasn't that the organization didn't have some high aims or that its members didn't work hard on their charitable projects," she said. "It was just that membership required so much time I found I was having to turn over my main job—care of my children—to a succession of 'poor help' in order to do the worthwhile jobs the organization expected me to do. Somehow that just didn't make sense to me."
It doesn't make sense for mothers whose children are young enough to need their care or old enough to need their guidance to get so busy on even the most "worthwhile" outside project that the children are neglected.
Yet it happens in the best of families—and often seems to happen most frequently in families where the mother is well-educated and should possess the qualities that would make her a good and understanding mother.

HAVE TO LOOK OUTSIDE HOME
THE trouble is, these women sometimes get... to "do good" they have to look for projects outside the home. They figure they aren't using their education and their brains or making the most of their opportunities if they put home and children first. Then they are being "just housewives," which they regard as a little beneath them.
But the truth of the matter is, nothing should cut in on a woman's duty to her family during the years when she is needed at home. The country is full of middle-aged women whose children are grown and whose home responsibilities take little of their time. They are the ones who should carry the load of worthwhile outside projects. Young women who have heavy home responsibilities shouldn't push them aside or onto somebody far less capable of handling them just to be do-gooders.

Young Republican Club Corn Roast Is Pleasing Affair

About 65 persons enjoyed a meeting and corn roast last night of the Young Republican club of Warren county held at Island Park, Youngsville, with Charles Tranter, chairman, in charge of the meeting.

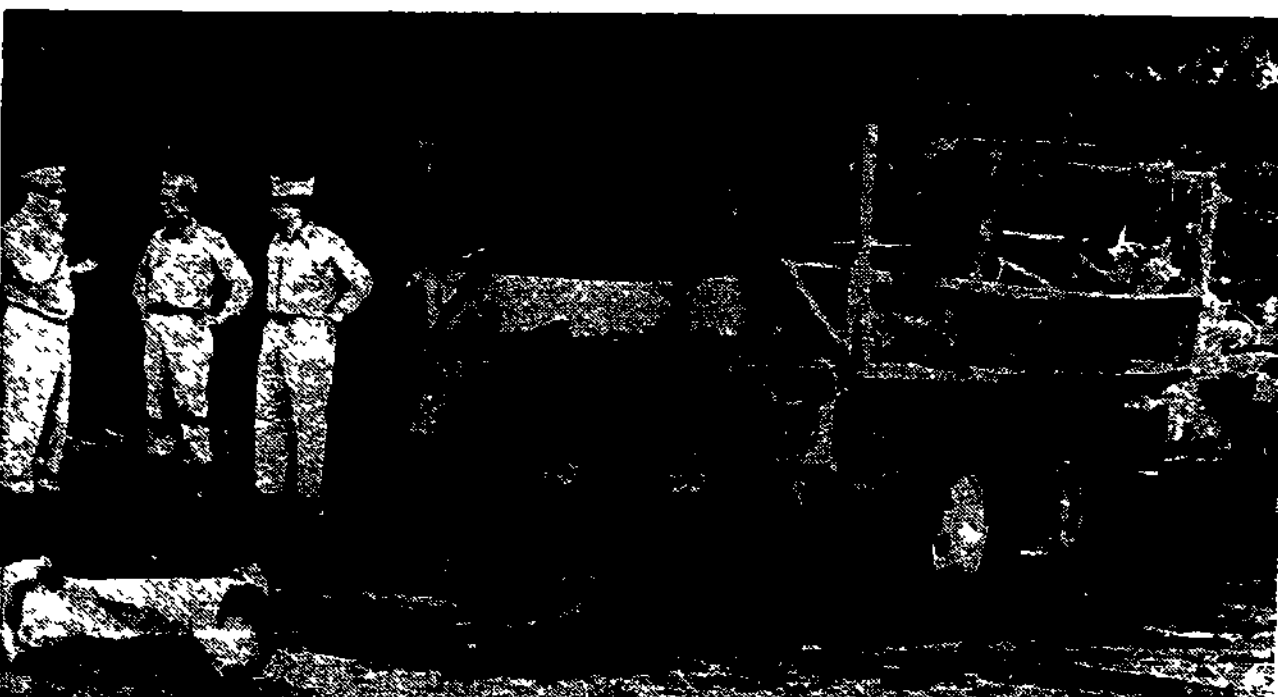

Miss Genevieve Lataste, France, foreign student visiting in the United States and in Warren, gave an interesting and entertaining account of her life and answered many questions asked by the group.

Also a speaker was Ralph Sires, prothonotary, who gave an interesting and educational report of his duties as prothonotary. County officials and candidates present were introduced.

A report on the national convention in June of the Young Republicans held in Boston was given by Mrs. Charles Tranter who attended the convention with her husband.

Mrs. Robert Spencer and Willy Johnson, both of Youngsville, were in charge of the corn and wener roast which followed the meeting and program.

The club will meet again sometime in September in Sheffield.

WHERE 13 DIED IN JET CRASH—The pilot and passenger of a T-33 jet trainer based at McGuire Field in New Jersey were killed when their training plane crashed near an Army truck loaded with soldiers on the Fort Dix reservation. Eleven men in and around the truck were also killed and 20 injured after being sprayed with flaming gasoline from the crash. A board of officers has been appointed to investigate the accident.

Warren Fire Dept. Gets New Nozzle For Altitude Use

One of the most modern pieces of fire-fighting apparatus in existence has just been purchased by Warren Borough, a ladder pipe nozzle attachment for use on the ladder truck.

This nozzle attachment can be used on top of the ladder in sending a stream of water from high altitude. It is on a swivel and can be turned in any direction. Operation is very similar to that of a machine gun.

Heretofore the handling of a hose at an altitude has been not only dangerous but ineffective and impractical. The fireman has had to hold onto the ladder with his legs and with one hand, allowing him only the use of one hand to hold and direct the hose.

Borough Manager L. M. McConnell said this morning that this new ladder pipe was purchased at a cost of $388.50.

Reds Accused by Allies of Making "Universal Symbol of Bad Faith"

That involved an incident in which a Chinese patrol was ambushed in the neutral zone and its leader killed. Joy acknowledged receipt of Nam's blistering charge, said preliminary investigation did "not substantiate the charges," and added he would reply after he had studied full reports of investigators.

Nam II rejected this, the Korean Reds' Pyongyang radio reported, and demanded "severe punishment of the violators of the neutral zone and a guarantee of the non-recurrence, of such incidents."

Dispatches from Merida, Mexico, said the storm wrought havoc when it swept across Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula Monday. Farmers said the corn crop was ruined. The hurricane took its heaviest toll in the peninsula's eastern part. Calumet reported 57 homes destroyed. The electric system at Port of Progreso was damaged severely. Movie houses and several homes were wrecked in Tulum. Some business houses there were smashed by falling palm trees.

must be given to those people in the midwest whose lives have been dislocated by the flood. The limited resources of the small farmer, the baker, the barber, the storekeeper and thousands of others call for a long and costly rehabilitation task, he said.

President Truman has urged the American people to respond to this appeal to the tune of at least $5,000,000. It is hoped that the presidential appeal will be fortified by hundreds of thousands who in the great American tradition are ever prompt to respond to human need and suffering.

The Red Cross chairman noted that the congress in 1905 officially charged the American Red Cross with responsibility for the welfare of disaster stricken individuals and families. And he stated that there is a strong possibility that the local quota of $1,500 may be doubled.

NO ELECTION FRAUD

New Castle, Aug. 22—(P)—District Attorney Sherman K. Levine of Lawrence county today cleared the Democratic party and election workers of any wrongdoing in connection with reports of misuse of sample ballots at the July 24 primary. Levine made an investigation of the reports after returning from a vacation. He said sample Democratic ballots were properly used in the New Wilmington and New Castle precincts which were involved.

Nelson's Bail Is Reduced to $20,000

Philadelphia, Aug. 22—(P)—Bail for Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist leader arrested last week on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the government, was reduced today to $20,000 by the U. S. District Court.

Nelson has been held in default of $100,000 bail. He appeared in court on crutches to protest the amount was too high. His counsel told U. S. District Judge William Kirkpatrick that "you can't deprive a person of his constitutional rights."

Judge Kirkpatrick, in granting the reduction, ruled that "bail is not fixed to keep a person in jail."

Nelson did not post bail immediately. He had argued he could not obtain $100,000 as security.

He was represented in court by Attorney Louis McCabe, a member of the defense counsel for the Communist leaders in New York.

U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleason, opposing any reduction in Nelson's bail, noted that several of the New York defendants dropped out of sight after their conviction and the others were placed under higher bail.

WEEDING OUT REDS
Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)—Vice President Barkley says the public "would be surprised if they knew the number of employees" dismissed from the government for Communist leanings or the suspicion of such leanings. Speaking on NBC's television program "Meet the Press" last night, Barkley said all departments of the government have done a good job in weeding out disloyal persons. He said "undoubtedly" there have been Communists on the federal payroll.

Paterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil D. Paterson, 422 Pennsylvania avenue, east; and Lyle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Lyle, 42 Locust street.

In a report from Lt. Sidney W. Blackman, Jr., commanding officer of the Division, it is stated Lyle has just been advanced to his present rank from seaman recruit, along with Glenn M. Logan, Tiona, and Meredith R. Phelps, 713 East street.

Mr. Blackman also reports the Division is now in a position to take recruits and anyone interested should either call the station during the day or come up to the training center for the Tuesday night drills. The unit is anxious to have its quota filled by October 9, when the federal inspection will be held.

They requested the authorities to hold their son until they could arrive there.

INTERESTING BROADCAST
Announcement of interest to radio listeners was made today when LeRoy Schneck, program director at Station WNAE, stated that a recording he made in Harrisburg Monday while interviewing a number of members of the house, including A. M. Gibson, Warren county; J. Kepler Davis, Forest; Herbert Sorg, Elk, and other members, will be broadcast this evening at seven o'clock. Mr. Schneck visited the state capitol in connection with a trip to Harrisburg to attend a meeting of the Broadcast Music Incorp.

At 4 p. m., they answered a call to Canton street where a little girl had been bitten by a dog, but she had been taken by her mother to a physician for treatment. At 12:46 a. m. today, they were able to unlock a screen door from the outside and enable a distressed matron to enter her home on Madison avenue. During the night, police discovered a large safe in a mercantile establishment to be wide open, but the store doors were locked. They kept a watch on the store during the night, the safe having been overlooked when the store was closed.

BLOODMOBILE VISIT
As the Times-Mirror went to press this afternoon the half-way mark had been passed by the Warren County Red Cross Chapter in its goal toward 150 pints of blood during the August visit of the Buffalo unit of the Bloodmobile here today. Chapter officials were a little skeptical over the prospects of exceeding the desired quota unless an unusually large number of "drop ins" show up before closing time at four o'clock.

THE MARKETS

New York, Aug. 22—(P)—A narrowly lower movement today in the stock market carried prices down by less than a dollar a share. There was little activity apparent in any major division, and most areas eased lower without undue trading excitement. A few issues stood out on both sides of the line. High priced American Cyanamid lost nearly two points shortly after the opening, by far the widest mover on the downside. Electric Boat opened on 4,000 shares up 1 5/8 on news that it will build an atomic powered submarine. American Export Lines was moderately lower after directors disclosed their decision to reduce the dividend rate on common for 1951 to $1.75 a share for the $2 rate previously paid.

"PEACE-LOVING" SOVIET GIRLS FOR WAR

Russia talks peace, but prepares herself and her satellites for war. Iron Curtain countries are steadily strengthening their armed forces and putting internal affairs in order for what could be a battlefield showdown with the West. Soviet Deputy Premier Molotov warned in Warsaw recently that Marshal Tito's Red, but anti-Soviet, government cannot last much longer. Russia's greatest living soldier, Marshal Zhukov, hero of Stalingrad and conqueror of Berlin, is called out of retirement. Marshal Tito says the period from now through 1952 is the "great hour of danger" for a new world war. Newspaper highlights other stunts in the wind revealing Soviet intentions.

Gen. Eisenhower hopes to build 12-nation NATO army to defend Western Europe.

Gen. Eisenhower says Russia has posed 175 divisions totaling 4,000,000 men, backed by 20,000 warplanes. Also, Moscow is reported aiming at forging huge new, integrated Eastern European Army among its satellites.

Poland and Romania follow other satellites in purging their armed forces and governments of suspected "deviationists."

Released Soviet prisoners report Russia's war factories operating full blast, say Soviet is "as ready for war as Germany was in 1939."

Hot Stove Intermediate Loop Pennant Won by Western Auto

Western Auto copped the 1951 championship of the Hot Stove Intermediate League last night by beating Waxman Furniture, 3-5, before a large crowd at War Memorial field.

The game was the rubber in a best-out-of-three series, each team having previously won one of the playoff tilts.

What was expected to be a pitchers' battle started out as a free-for-all when Western Auto scored five runs in the first inning while Waxmans came back with two runs in their half of the initial stanza.

Both teams then settled down and it was not until the sixth inning that the Furniture team succeeded in knotting the count, 5-5. The deadlock didn't last very long, however, for in the next inning Western Auto punched across three more tallies to make it 8-5. Final scoring of the game came in the last half of the seventh when Waxmans succeeded in getting across one run to make it 8-6.

Winkie Rickerson was the winning pitcher. He had only three passes on balls charged against him while striking out eight batters. Bruce Duell, Waxman hurler, walked three, hit two batters with pitched balls and fanned 12.

Ed Wollaston and Dick Reed pitched the umpiring for the game. The field was in tip-top shape, due to a lot of fine work by Park Superintendent Gilbert Reiter and his staff.

In scoring their five runs in the first frame, Western Auto batted around. Main, the leadoff, was safe on an error. Four singles, a walk, and a hit batter then accounted for the runs before Waxmans could get the fire out.

Waxman's scored their first two runs on two errors, a walk and a single. Their three-run spurge in the sixth came on two singles and three errors.

14 Deer Are Noted In Herd Near Barnes

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Holden of Barnes, are not inclined to drive over to Sheffield to see the deer family which makes an almost nightly appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden aren't likely to visit Heart's Content section to see the deer, either.

Truth is, they can see more wildlife by staying right at home. Mr. and Mrs. Holden and several neighbors watched 14 deer at the rear of the Holden yard a few evenings ago. There were 11 bucks, two does, and a spotted fawn.

Incidentally, it is reported these deer have been doing a lot of damage to gardens around Barnes.

Sixty Veterans On Gridiron Squads In McKean Co. Area

Bradford, Aug. 22—A check at Bradford and six other schools in that area show a turnout of approximately 300 boys, 60 of them veterans, for high school football this year.

Fifty-five answered first call at Bradford, including eight lettermen. They are Rudy Buccoloni, Monty Edel, Joe Zamberlan, Dick Bell, Avy Hanson, Joe Bizzaro, all back Tom Milliron, all-state center; Wally Jewell, an end; Joe Herland and Vic Zamberlain.

Thirty turned out for initial practice at St. Bernard's in Bradford with 10 others expected. Coach Jack Collins has eight returning lettermen, including Jim Beeman, Jim Poyer, Don Raabe, Mike Bob Butler, veteran center; Joe Piersimoni, veteran tackle; Bruce Sampson, tackle, and Dick Shillinger, an end.

Nine lettermen are on hand at Otto Township for Ray Bertolo's team. They are Oederick Galloway, Lester Rouse, Ralph Jones, Ralph Schwab and Dean Hosmer, linemen; Robert Ezzolo, Jack Welch, James Farr and Doc Milliron, backs.

At Smethport, there are 10 lettermen. They are Dick Shirey, Don Shurey, Jack tickles, backs; Steve Johnson, Jim Rice, John Bean, John Hamilton, and John Lindholm, linemen.

Port Allegany had nine lettermen, including co-captains Joe Luce and John Wald, end and quarterback, respectively. Others are Eugene Bosworth, Jim McLaughlin, Paul Hoffower, backs; and Wayne Ostrander, Dwain Ludwig, Tom Saures and Dan Kerr, linemen.

Bob Williams, Kane coach, was greeted by 10 men from last year, including Keith Weisem, Tom Kibbie, Frank Nicolozzo, Bob Tiltburg, John Mathys, backs; and Dave Baumann, Norman Moore, Leroy Haulik, Bruce Rice and Ed Rudler, linemen.

Only two lettermen were on hand from the tough 1950 squad at Johnsonburg. Coach Frank Funnar is forced to build this yet a third edition around Quarterback Francis Villella and Halfback Bob Bressler.

Coach Bill Cutler at Ridgway has only three lettermen in Fred Murgeson, a back; Guido Menicacci, a tackle; and Bob Butterfuss, an end. Ridgway, it will be remembered, was unbeaten and untied last year.

Kane had a total turnout of 65 boys. Fifty-two answered the call at Port Allegany, 36 at Otto Township, 32 at Smethport with 15 more expected, 45 at Ridgway and 36 at Johnsonburg.

Feller Attains Second of Three Aims for Baseball Campaign

By The Associated Press
Bobby Feller has reached the second of three goals set before the start of the 1951 season.

The 32-year-old righthander of the Cleveland Indians set 20 victories, a world series triumph and a no-hitter as his prime targets for the season. He got his no-hitter against Detroit on July 1.

Feller realized his second ambition last night as he became the major's first 20-game winner, and the way the Indians are traveling these days he stands a good chance of attaining the other.

The no-hit master pitched the Indians to a 6-0 triumph over the Washington Senators and preserved Cleveland's one game edge over the runner-up New York Yankees. The Yanks hammered the Detroit Tigers, 11-4, while the St. Louis Browns upset the third place, Boston Red Sox, 6-4, and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 13-5, in other American League games.

Meanwhile, in the National League, the New York Giants stretched their winning streak to ten games, beating the Cincinnati Reds, 7-4. The Philadelphia Phils nipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2 in 12 innings in completing a suspended game of July 22 and then downed the Cubs, 4-1, in the regular scheduled night game. The Boston Braves clipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1. Rain washed out a game between St. Louis and Brooklyn in the third inning.

Field Is Narrowed For Baseball Czar

New York, Aug. 22—(P)—The new baseball commissioner, who may be named at the major league joint meeting in Chicago Sept. 20, will be either Warren Giles, Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio or Ford Frick.

In a six and a half hour meeting here yesterday, the club owners narrowed the field of candidates down to these three men. The Associated Press learned today. The owners also voted that the executive council call a meeting for Sept. 20 for the express purpose of electing a czar, with increased powers and a larger salary than any of his predecessors. However, the fact that three names remain does not mean that one must be elected commissioner.

Happy Chandler, the ousted commissioner, was a dark horse when he was elected.

Del Webb, vice president of the New York Yankees and chairman of the screening committee, announced at the close of yesterday's session that the field had been whittled down from 11 to five.

It was learned on strong authority, however, that two of the five Webb had in mind were Douglas MacArthur and Milton Eisenhower, president of Penn State. The others were Gov. Lausche, Giles and Frick. Giles is president of the Cincinnati Reds and Frick is president of the National League.

Eisenhower and MacArthur could still be considered last minute candidates if either decides to throw his hat into the ring. Up to now, both have said they felt "honored but could not accept the position." However, it was felt in some quarters that they might change their minds.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC

By The Associated Press
The see-saw battle for first place in the Middle Atlantic League today finds Niagara Falls back in the lead by eight percentage points over the Erie Sailors.

The Sailors were pushed into second place in a 5-4 loss to New Castle last night. Niagara Falls was idle.

Ken Geer limited the Sailors to seven hits and Ted Toles hit a two-run homer in the fourth for New Castle.

The Butler Pirates trounced Lockport 6-3 after staging a four-run rally in the eighth.

Five lettermen make up Lehigh's nucleus for the 1951 varsity. They are backfield men Toby Shea, George Scashe and Dean Velsing, and linemen Ben Pastrick and Charles Conway.

Ten games have been slated for the Warren High squad with Greenville High taken off the list and Dunkirk and Jamestown, N. Y., elevens added.

The 1951 schedule:

Pittsburgh, Aug. 22—(P)—Professional football makes its 1951 debut at Forbes Field tonight with the Pittsburgh Steelers meeting the New York Yanks in an exhibition game. A crowd of 20,000 is expected. The Steelers rate as favorites, mostly because they have one game under their belts—a 24-9 loss to the Philadelphia Eagles.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

MIS-BID HAND OFTEN HAS A PURPOSE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

In a rubber bridge game, today's hand would be played at five clubs. North would make that contract easily enough, and the hand would be forgotten a moment later.

The hand was actually dealt, however, in a tournament. North knew that five clubs would not provide as good a tournament score as four spades. Therefore he never even mentioned the clubs but raised the spades at once. Perhaps this was a poor idea, but it certainly turned out well, and I hate to quarrel with success.

East's double would be unthinkable in a rubber bridge game. In tournament play, however, cream-puff doubles are often made. At any rate, that's the way the bidding went, and all four players were very well-known tournament stars, so it couldn't have been too out-landish.

West opened the king of hearts, and continued the suit on being encouraged by his partner's jack. South ruffed, led a trump to dummy's ace, and returned a low diamond from dummy.

East put up the jack of diamonds, but West overtook with the king in order to lead the eight of clubs. This was a good idea, since

East might have the queen of clubs, but as the cards lay it made no difference. South won with the queen of clubs and drew one more round of trumps with the king.

Declarer then abandoned the trumps. Outside of the trumps, East could have nothing better than two red queens and two red jacks. This would not be enough even for a cream-puff double unless East also had four trumps to the queen-ten.

South therefore played for a trump coup. He led to the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond, setting up the rest of dummy's long suit. This left declarer with jack-eight of spades behind East's queen-ten.

South then led a club to dummy's king and proceeded to lead diamonds from dummy. If East ruffed low, South could over-ruff and lead clubs until East was ready to take the queen of trumps. If East ruffed high, South could discard, win any return, and draw the last trump.

East actually chose to discard. South thereupon discarded clubs and was able to lead from the dummy at the 12th trick. East could make only his queen of trumps, and South was bound to make his contract.

Recruiting U. S. Army U. S. Air Force

Your U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiter, Sgt. Jim Horony, brings you the second edition of the Recruiter's Column.

"Hook Up With the Airborne"
Not many years ago airborne armies were only a dream. Now, after the battles of the Pacific and Europe, "airborne" is here to stay.

Have you ever heard the expression, "Devils from the sky?"
If you haven't, here is how it originated. The Germans in World War II gave the men of the U. S.
Airborne this rugged title. The F-105 learned by bitter and costly experience the title they gave those paratroopers was very appropriate. The airborne was, and is, everything that is swift, sudden, and tough. It is a branch of the Regular Army which combines every feature of the Regular Army into one compact unit. Airborne means everything found on the ground transposed into the air.

No service calls for more, no service offers more. He is the thrill of the jump, the swift silent descent of the glider, the sudden avalanche from the troop transport of engineers, artillery, medical men, radio men and all equipment, adapted, trained and improved for aerial operation.

To be a paratrooper one must be of excellent physical condition to stand the rugged jump training, and upon completion of this training, if the need ever arises, be ready to drop behind lines, into isolated spots and difficult terrain where every man must be able to do the work of two and be able to think for himself under all conditions.

Airborne is a specialized and direct assignment open to single men between the ages of 17 and 30 who are mentally and physically qualified. See your local Recruiting Sgt. for more information, located 2nd floor, Post Office Building, Warren, Pa.

CLEAN PIGS

The idea that hogs are filthy in their habits is untrue. They will stuff themselves with food the way other animals and humans sometimes will, and they wriggle in the mud because it helps them to keep cool and remove extra oil from their skins.
